

AIBC: About Us

We live in an era of radical innovation and technological progress with the rapid emergence, adoption and integration of several novel frontier industries being just on the horizon. AIBC is a globally respected nexus for emerging technologies with the best and brightest in the world of Blockchain, Artificial intelligence, Quantum Computing and several other sectors all calling the summit home.

Launched in 2018 in Malta and founded by Eman Pulis, the inaugural summit set the stage by acting as a launchpad for Malta's novel regulation on DLT, being amongst the first states to do so and setting the stage for the mass adoption of the technology. Since then, the summit has been one of the core hubs for leading figures from several emerging tech sectors, laying the foundation for the economy of the Future.

Bringing the future to you

The conference is active across five geographical areas with summits being found in Asia, Americas, CIS, Europe and Africa with an international audience to match. Exhibitors and delegates are drawn from across the world to participate in inspiring keynote speeches, enlightening panels, workshops and much more. Our speakers are drawn from the pioneers of the emerging tech world, thought leaders and industry titans who's labour had brought the full potential of their ventures into areas such as the Blockchain and AI into the mainstream and became pillars of the global economy in the process. Through the platform provided by our summit, these leading figures discuss, deliberate and set the stage for the coming Industrial Revolution 4.0.

A spotlight for rising stars

With the summit heavily embodying the virtues of entrepreneurship and innovation, our conference provides ambitious start-ups with several opportunities to scale exponentially with several alumni of our programmes being leading market makers in their own right in the present.

Our Start-Up Pitch combines showmanship with vision by having our top 100 start-ups competing for a chance to win up to $500,000 in equity investment as well as several other benefits. We are also partnered with Ikigai Ventures, a UK-based Venture Capital firm that specialises in emerging sectors, who's physical presence at each of our summits provides any enterprising start-up a variety of opportunities to meet investors. With Eman Pulis, the founder of the AIBC Summit, also being a founding partner of Ikigai Ventures, the partnership acts as a natural incubator for the potential market makers of the future.
